Roll) Hogan of St. Louis today announced from the floor of the House that he would withdraw his request for appointment to the chairmanship of the Criminal Justice Committee.

The appointment was promised him last week by Speaker John G. Christy, who said at the same time that no measures for reform of the criminal code, or relating to liquor, would go to that committee.

Forward answer that the Speaker made on the question of my appointment from the chair.

I have nothing to run from, or to hide from. I have been subjected to newspaper criticism for many years, and I am used to it. However, in order that nobody may be criticised or unfairly dealt with, I want at this time to withdraw my request for appointment to any committee in the House, and especially announced from the floor of the made on the question of my appointment from the chair.

Union's Primary Demand.

The fundamental demand of the union and the basic cause of the strike is the union's insistence that strike is the union's insistence that it be recognized as the sole collective bargaining unit for all production employes. While General Motors' executives have repeatedly attated it would regard the union only as representing its membership, this question of collective bargaining was one of the points to be considered in the negotiations. In fact, it was the only point the union was prepared to stand firm on.

ed States fleet, in the harbor here, staff officers are mapping plans for spring maneuvers of the fleet in which some 500 airplanes will operate at sea. There will be more than 3,000,000 miles of flight, more than 1000 catapultings of seaplanes from fighting ships and returns at sea. There will be several thousand takeoffs and landings by landing geared fighting machines of the aircraft carriers.

The old cruiser Pennsylvania was the scene. A crude platform had been erected by the ship carpenter's gang on the warcraft's stern.

Today aboard the dreadnaught Pennsylvania, flagship of the Unitaircraft carriers.

Aboard the dreadnaught Pennsylvania are four seaplanes. They are capable of speeds more than twice as great as Ely's plane. From the turntable catapults all four can be shot and returned to the ship in less time than it took Ely to turn his plane and takeoff from the old cruiser Pennsylvania. All battleships and cruisers carry planes and catapults. Janssen, symphony orchestra conductor, were married in the Caxton catapults.

The ceremony lasted less than 15 minutes. The actress' 7-year-old daughter by her first marriage to Harry Bannister of Hollywood was among the witnesses.

Clive Brook, English actor who has made numerous pictures in Hollywood, was Janssen's best man.

The bride, wearing a small, black tight-fitting hat and silver fox cape, blew a kiss to a group of photographers and said "God bless you" when they assented to her request to take but one posed photograph.

She was flanked by two police inspectors, and a dozen police were on duty at the hall. Janssen, son of a New York restaurateur and guest conductor of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra in 1935, arrived at the registrar's office first

The ceremony was performed by Registrar J. P. Bond, who was called from his home. Janssen had called Brook last midnight, having decided to marry at once when news of the romance became public.

After the wedding the pair drove off with Jane. Friends said they were going to Brighton. The marriage was the second for Janssen, 37 years old, has been in Europe since his New York appearance in 1935. Miss Harding, 34, came here last June after her former husband sought custody of their child. She recently won permission from Hollywood courts to keep Jane in England until next May.

NINE MEN CALLED FOR TRIAL IN NEW YORK CAFE RACKET

Accused of Extorting Money From Restaurant Owners in Scheme Originated by Dutch Schultz. By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 .- Nine men Court today on charges of operating a $2,000,000-a-year "shakedown racket against Manhattan restaurant and night club owners. Special Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey, said the trial would present a be-hind-the-scenes picture of how a large-scale racket is organized.

The 153-page indictment charges the individual defendants with organizing the Metropolitan Restau-rant and Cafeteria Association for rant and Cafeteria Association for the express purpose of extorting money from restaurant operators by threatening them with stench hombs and labor trouble unless they joined. Dewey declared the racket was organized originally by the late Arthur (Dutch Schults) Flegenheimer and Jules Martin, both of whom have been killed since by underworld enemies. Flegenheimer and Martin, as well as Abe Borson and Harry S. Koenig, who also met violent death during the 17-month investigation, were named co-conspirators in the indictnamed co-conspirators in the indict-ment. Another defendant, Max Pin-cus, leaped out a window last month and was killed.

The surviving defendants are accused of gaining control, by terroristic practices, of a local of the hotel and restaurant employes' in-ternational alliance and of a local of the delicatessen countermen and eafeteria workers' union.

STOCKS "GOING UP TOO FAST" Credit Men's Manager Suggests Study by Securities Commission. By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Warning that "the stock market is still run-ning ahead of business recovery," Henry H. Helmann, executive man-ager of the National Association of stock market often anticipates business recovery. But it seems rather evident in this particular stock market situation that the distance between recovery affected in the securities world and that effected in the business world is out of proportion. Hellmann proposed the Securities Commission analyze "a fair cross section" of speculative accounts on brokers books and publish results of the analysis.

formal ratification votes would be taken among the memberships of each of the seven unions as soon as tentative agreements were ready for submission to all.

The employer offer to the long-shoremen promised $1 an hour for all work between 8 a. m., and 5 p. m., and $1.50 an hour outside the prescribed period, with relief gangs to be furnished after the first six hours. The relief gang thus would work two hours for straight pay of $1 an hour and at $1.50 an hour

The latter was the wording of the compromise proposal of last Oct.

As an alternative, the employers said they would pay 95 cents an bour for the period between 8 a. m. and 3 p. m. and $1.40 an hour outside that time limit. This is virtually the same as wages paid before the strike. Union spokesmen indicated they might make a counter proposal of $1 an hour for any six hours between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. and $1.50 thereafter.

As Boy, He Was Given to Woman as Wedding Present; Freed When War Began.

George Washington Brooks, a Negro, who was born in slavery 83 years ago and who died of infirmities Thursday at the home of Mrs* Herman A. Jensen, 4130 Lafayette avenue, great-granddaughter of his first owner, the late Capt. James Brooks of Jefferson County, was buried yesterday at French Village, St. Francois County, where he was freed at the start of the Civil War. When he was 7 years old Brooks was given as a wedding present to Mrs. Luella Brooks AB Buchon of French Village. After she freed him he remained as a paid servant. He helped rear her six children and became known in the community as "the shepherd of the flock."

On one occasion during the war, George Brooks, then 9 years old, rode a horse from French Village to Brooks Place in Jefferson County.

Oil Company on East Side Accused of Discrimination Against Union Employes.

A hearing was opened today be ore an examiner of the National abor Relations Board at the New Abor Relations Board at the New Federal Building on charges that the Phillips Petroleum Co. and its subsidiary, Phillips Pipe Line Co., and discriminated against its em-ployes who joined a union affil-ated with the American Federation.

The first witness was W. J. Arens, 3088A Marcus avenue, president of the Federal Labor Union No. 18,980, who testified that after he was dismissed from his job at the East St. Louis terminal of the Phillips Pipe Line Co., he applied to the superintendent of the petroleum company in St. Louis for a position and was told that he would have to give up his office in the labor union before he would get a place.

He said 72 of the 90 employes at the East St. Louis terminal attended the or-St. Louis terminal attended the organization meeting. In the spring of 1935, he continued, the chairman of the union grievance committee called a meeting in the front office of the company and informed those who attended that he, the chairman, was "ready to throw in his union card"

The witness said the president of the company attended that meeting and complimented the men on their work and indicated he preferred that they join the company association. At that time, Arens continued, the Grievance Committee chairman, whom he identified as Jake Ross, and 13 others withdrew from the union. Other resignations followed, he said, until in June, 1935, there were only 10 members left on the union roll, and only seven had paid their dues. In August, 1935, Arens was dismissed, although, he said, an officer of the company had commended him as being superior in intelligence to most of the employes, indicating that things would be done for him if he would "go along with the company." Thereafter Arens worked as an organizer for the union, building the membership up to 57 at the close of 1938. A strike was called at the pipe line terminal last Oct. 16 over the dismissal of Arens, but the men went back to work eight days later.

The complaint charges the companies have "urged, persuaded and warned" employes to refrain from joining the union, and have "fostered, dominated and controlled" and given financial aid to a company organization known as the Phillips Employes' Association.

These charges were denied in an answer filed by the companies whose attorney, Harold L. Baker of East St. Louis, today objected to the taking of any testimony. Exhibits were placed in the record intended to show the interstate nature of the business of the companies. The hearing was before Examiner Robert Gates of Washington.

Nine U. S. Army Planes Search Mountains and Jungles of Nicaragus.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 18.-Gordon Kingsley, brother of the lost American airman, E. W. Kingsley, was reported missing last night as nine United States Army planes searched for the latter. E. W. Kingsley, formerly of Glendale, Cal., operator of the Nicaragua-Atlantic Coast Airways, disappeared after taking off from Managua at 7 a. m. Wednesday to carry supplies to the Bonanza mines about 80 miles from the east Gordon took off from the Bonanza mines at 4 p. m. Saturday night to search the country between there and Puerto Cabezas, on the Caribbean, in a search for his brother. He failed to report beore nightfall.

Army flyers flew in groups of three over mountains and jungles in their search yesterday. They re-ported their efforts were fruitless because heavy clouds hung over the section where E. W. Kingsley is thought to have disappeared.

UNEMPLOYED MAN WINS $200 IN TOWNSEND PLAN CONTEST

He Is to Spend It Within 20 Days;

CHELAN, Wash., Jan. 18.-An unemployed orchard worker set out today to spend within the next month $200 awarded him in the first actical experiment of the Townsend pension plan.

"I certainly won't have any trouble finding how to spend the money," said C. C. Fleming, winner of the contest at a Townsend dance early today. Tickets for the dance carried one vote each.

Fleming was credited with 256 votes; Myron Perkins officially received 253. He claimed 267, but found he had left 14 at home and was on a mile hike through the snow to get them when the deadine was reached.

The winner accepted the money on condition he spend it in Chelan within 30 days. The money was posted by Isom Lamb, county Townsend supervisor.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 18.—Daisy Root, young mother of a 5-year-old son, occupied a jail cell yesterday while her attorneys sought a reduc-tion in her 10-year sentence for killing her husband.

The 31-year-old matron, who had been at liberty under bond, was taken into custody Saturday when the Tennessee Supreme Court denied her appeal but recommended leniency. The Supreme Court Justices branded as "lecherous in the extreme" Brenton Root, whom Mrs. Root shot to death following an argument over her husband's attentions to a night club girl.

Root, son of a Chicago clergy-man, was shot to death at his country home near here Nov. 3.

The claims arose prior to the receivership of the street car company, which began in April, 1933. The compromises involve no immediate payment by the company. They will be grouped with other general claims against the bankrupt company for the payment of which some provision must be made when a reorganization plan is submitted. Claims which have arisen since the receivership have been paid in cash when settlements were agreed on. The trustee has filed several previous lists of compromised claims based on accidents which occurred before the receivership.

The Shamrock soccer club may have to face stouter competition between now and the close of the season, but they will certainly not have to play under worse condi-tions than they met with yesterday when they defeated the Maccabees of Chicago, 3 to 0, in an exhibition match at Public Schools Stadium, thereby recording their fifteenth straight victory of the season. Thick, gummy mud transformed what might have been a nice, lesque. So heavy was the ball, with its coat of sticky clay, that not even the giant Billy Gonsalves could drive it more than 20 yards Sore muscles and weak joints were put to a severe test and, fortunately, all the ailing members of Shamrocks survived except Joe Strattman, who suffered a recurrence of his knee trouble and had to quit the field before half time. Pitching Troubles.

The main trouble, though, is with his pitchers. He conceded he has probably the two best righthand flingers in the league, Dizzy Dean and Lonnie Warneke, and another starter in Jim Winford. He also has 10 prospects from top minor leagues coming to training camp, but still he's worried.

"You can't tell about those youngsters yet," he said just before leaving. "If we get two major league pitchers out of the 10, I'll be satisfied."

The 10 are Bill McGee and Mike Ryba, from Columbus, and Si Johnson from Toronto, all of whom were with the Cards late last season; Bob Weiland and Ray Harrell, Rochester; Morton Cooper, Columbus; Ira Smith and Herb Moore, Houston and Nata Andrews and

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Would Begin Merging at the Bottom. To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOUR editorial, "Missouri and Its Counties," which analyzes the prob-lem of consolidation, is a real contribution toward constructive thought on Missouri local government. But I wish that you had not limited your discussion solely to the 114 counties. There is an equally pressing need for reduction in the numer of lesser units of government, namely, the 9211 school districts, 847 special road districts and 345 organized townships.

Schools and local roads account for approximately two-thirds of the yearly exenditures of local rural government in ssouri. To administer these functions, however, there exist 75 to 100 separate school districts per county (each an in-dependent taxing, spending and policy-determining agency), and numerous special road districts which deprive the county courts of authority over road affairs within district boundaries.

In counties with township organization, local road moneys are expended by 14 or 15 independent township boards. Thus, the county governments have but little control over the two largest items of ex-

You will agree, I am sure, that school administration in the City of St. Louis would be a chaos of waste and extravagance if each elementary school were governed by an independent board of edever, in every county of the State.

A Protest From Collinsville. To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE city administration of St. Louis. I in its effort to reduce smoke, is now considering an ordinance which would prohibit the use of Illinois coal unless it washed or otherwise treated.

Collinsville, a city of 10,000 population depends upon its coal mines, and St. Louis is the principal market for the coal produced here. This city is located 12 miles of Greater St. Louis or the St. Louis trading area. If this ordinance is passed, it uld close most of the coal mines here: it would throw approximately 2500 mer now employed at the mines out of work, and would materially decrease the receipts of this firm and every business in Collinsville. It would also greatly reduce the amount of money earned in this city ing expended in St. Louis.

WILLIAM M. EHNERT.

Talk of amending the Constitution of the United States is not only in the air these days. It has been translated into some 50 concrete proposals actually before the new Congress. Almost every day sees still other resolutions looking to constitutional change dumped into the legislative hoppers of the Senate and House.

These proposals vary a great deal. A large proportion of them relate to the Supreme Court, but two-thirds majority of the Justices to invalidate a Federal law. Some would require a unanimous vote. Others would curb the court indirectly by giving increased powers to Congress. Still others are directed at the interpretation the court has given to the due process clauses of the fifth and fourteenth amendments. Some even propose the automatic retirement of Federal Judges, now appointed for life.

Along with these go other proposals which would require a constitutional amendment to become effective. Senator Burke of Nebraska, for example, wants the presidential term lengthened to six years, together with prohibition against the re-election of the chief executive. Representative Cannon of Wisconsin thinks that the Federal judiciary would be of a higher character if its members were elected rather than appointed; his amendment calls for a popular vote on United States Judges.

Meanwhile, outside Congress, voices continue to call for constitutional amendment. Virtually every law school and every university and college department of political science has members who are saying that an amendment is the only way out. Dean Charles E. Clark of the Yale University Law School proposed an amendment at the recent national meeting of the National Consumers' League. Dean Lloyd K. Garrison of the University of Wisconsin has set down the text of an amendment for scrutiny. Robert E. Cushman of Cornell, Karl N. Llewellyn of Columbia, William Y. Elliott of Harvard and many other students of government have gone on record for a limitation of the wide powers now exercised by the Supreme Court. Various groups representing labor and agricultural interests have from their administration. taken much the same stand.

Thus far, President Roosevelt has avoided committing himself on the subject of constitutional amendment. All efforts on the part of his political opposition to join him in the issue during the presidential campaign failed. Specific questions put to him at press conferences have been turned aside. His recent remarks about "harmonizing" the judicial branch of the Government with the legislative and executive branches might be taken to indicate that Mr. Roosevelt looked to a changed attitude of the Justices. Yet there are statements by the ranking administration leaders in the congressional chambers -Speaker Bankhead and Majority Leader Robinsondescribing an amendment as the "best method."

Those who are seeking constitutional change, whether direct or indirect, can only confuse the public mind so long as they engage in a cross-fire of ideas. Realizing this fact, some of the leading ucation possessing the powers to tax and advocates of change have arranged to attack the spend. Such a situation prevails, how-problem in a systematic way at a conference part month. Senator Norris of Nebraska, himself the sponsor of a plan to require an extraordinary majority for invalidation of an act of Congress by the Supreme Court, has agreed to head the conference. The plan is to assemble the various ideas, discuss them thoroughly and then propose a course for debate in Congress and the country at large.

One thing needs to be remembered as this conference takes form. There is nothing novel about cago and other cities? These trips have proposals to amend the Constitution. The last Congress saw the introduction of some 65 resolutions calling for an amendment of one sort or These trips usually cover stretches of another. GOV. HORNER BEGINS A NEW TERM.

Gov. Horner's second inaugural was the sort message which Illinois has come to expect of him. An address which looked ahead rather than back, it even those which seek to restrict judicial powers showed his knowledge of the State's problems and differ as to method. Some would take outright from sincere concern for their solution. There will be the Supreme Court its authority to declare acts of those who differ with Mr. Horner at certain points, Congress unconstitutional. Some would require a but by and large his remarks will meet with general approval.

Perhaps the greatest change recommended is the consolidation of some 10,000 rural school districts into approximately 100 taxing districts. Some school administrators will insist that, should this be achieved, an increase in State aid would still be necessary for the maintenance of proper standards of education in the counties of lesser means. Virtually all of them, however, will agree with the Governor that reorganization of the present minutely subdivided system of school districts would be a notable forward step in behalf of economy and efficiency in public education. To this end, the Governor proposed the enactment of legislation to permit the people in any county, by referendum, to consolidate rural elementary school districts.

The Governor has not been stampeded by the criticism of the Illinois parole system, and we think he is wise in proceeding cautiously. Instead of condemning its administrators, he takes the wholly proper stand that changes in the parole laws should not be the ill-considered result of the hue and cry of the present moment. The purpose of the parole is to give a fair chance for rehabilitation to offenders who are worthy of it. If there are not enough agents to supervise the nearly 6000 Illinois paroles, the course for Illinois is precisely that outlined by the Governor. The State should add to its list of agents the number needed for adequate supervision. The parole laws should not work a hardship on the majority of paroled persons who make good, neither should they prove a boon to those who abuse their trust. Much of the success or failure of these laws must come

Illinois, like Missouri, is one of the states which have failed to enact an unemployment compensation statute, and it was to be expected that Gov. Horner would urge the prompt correction of this deficiency. He also called for the enactment of an eight-hour law for woman employes, a railroad full-crew bill, a bill to regulate "industrial home work," the continuation of the present pay-as-you-go policy in the operation of the State Government, the tightening of the State's criminal code and continuation of adequate relief. Still other worthy causes to which the Governor gave support are a State drivers' license and proof of financial responsibility for automobile drivers, extension of the merit system, co-operation with adjoining states in fighting crime, submission of a proposal calling a State constitutional convention, acceptance of women for jury service and reapportionment of the outmoded districts providing the basis for election to the national House of Representatives, the Legislature and the State Supreme

It is to be hoped that factional squabbles in the Legislature will not hold up or seriously hinder the major items on the Governor's program. Patronage is one thing; the enactment of laws for the public good is another. Only a self-serving politician would attempt to mix them. A successful State administration requires that the Legislature and the Governor work together. By proper co-operation, the session of the Illinois Legislature now beginning can make itself an instrument for continuing good government in Illinois.

PENSIONERS OF 1812.

It would be enlightening if a biologist some day familiar faces. They go back to the long ago. Along would look into the question of why war pension beneficiaries enjoy such exceptional longevity. The the drama of the years enacted with its lights and matter comes to notice again in the report of Brigadier-General Frank T. The War of 1812 ended more than 121 years ago. The last veteran died 31 years ago. THE GREAT BALANCING ACT.

How Sweden Whipped the Depression

Work-relief for unemployed is part of Swedish plan, but, unlike ours, projects are planned far ahead; nation weathered depression under works system set up in 1914, and now is planning for next one, writer finds; men are paid on piece-work basis, to prevent loafing; virtually no jobless now, and the relief bill has been paid.

Maxine Davis, Author of "The Lost Generation," in McCall's Magazine.

THE Swedes are sane, practical and caupeople should face depressions with a outskirts of Stockholm: the roadbed for a trolley line paralleling the highway, but no signs of any machinery for its completion.

"It's a reserve work," an official of the State Unemployment Commission informs us. "We began it during our crisis and we will finish it when another depression

The Swedes are convinced of the virtue of work relief because they have been trysystem in 1914, because they were unable to secure compulsory unemployment insur ance, and they foresaw depression as the result of the Great War. They organized it through a National Unemployment Commis sion, under civil service, with subsidiary commissions in each local community, appointed by the Governor of the provi

In Sweden, there is no statutory relief at all, only the poor law, designed to succor women and children. The national theory is that men must work. But not solely for the good of their souls. The country wants to get something it actually needs for its ex-

The people know-a fact we in the United States do not seem to grasp—that the city fathers cannot just get together some evening and think up essential public works. Consequently, the Swedish authorities plan projects for reserve works which would not rmally be begun for three years. The Government knows exactly how many men it can put to work at any time, and where, and how much it will cost. While it is strictly provided by law that wages must nevertheless, the projects must be of demon strable economic or cultural value.

Swedish reserve works are just what the name implies: works kept in reserve for eriods when they are needed. They are ready before unemployment arises. Here, however, is another great difference between the Swedish works and ours: Once a public work is begun, the men employed or it are not retained there until it is finished, regardless of economic conditions, and com-peting with private industry for labor. When ousiness picks up, the Swedes close down their reserve works.

job, he must take it. That, of course, is also our principle. Only, with the WPA, it doesn't work out for the reason that we have no machinery for connecting the man and the job or even for ascertaining whether or not a man has actually been offered a job. In Sweden, the public employment exchanges co-operate closely with the unemployment commission. When jobs are offered in significant numbers at the labor exchanges, the men whose applications are on file are referred to the employers. We ex-pected men to return automatically to private employment. They haven't, for a va-riety of reasons.

The Swedes are pretty hard-boiled about that sort of thing. In the first place, they pay on a scale determined by the lowest rates paid unskilled labor in any given locality. And then, it's just not the unemployment commission's business what private industry pays. The commission is there only to hire men when there is literally

Sweden labor is so highly organized that, through their trade unions, the men take care of their wage rates themselves. One of the most serious defects, and one of the greatest sources of public aggrava-tion, in our own work-relief is that when we hire a man on a public work on the basis of his need, he has to be spectacularly inadequate before he is fired. Not so in Sweden. A man on reserve work there is paid on a piece-work basis. Thus, if a man spends eight hours doing two hours' work, he gets paid for only two hours' accom-

Excellently planned though the Swedish reserve works were, they were inadequate for a depression of the extent and duration of the one which swept that country, in common with the rest of the Western world, in 1932. Like other countries, Sweden was forced to resort to direct relief. This she relief jobs, and ceased to give it just as she suspended most of her public works when osperity returned.

In order to avoid such a contingency in the future, the Government appointed a special commission to study further possibilities for public employment, covering a wider variety of projects. That commission is still at work, surveying every community, from the greatest cities to the tiniest parishes. When Parliament convenes again, it will probably provide for a considerably expanded program. The Swedes do not deceive themselves into thinking they will suffer no more depressions!

All in all, between a healthy recovery and her obviously workable method for shifting men off relief jobs back to the niches where they belong, Sweden is in the enviable posi-tion of having almost no unemployment to-day. These measures, all co-ordinated, demonstrate vividly the possibilities of an integrated public work program, capable of expanding or contracting according to need.

The trouble in the United States has been that we were obliged to plunge unprepared into giving relief on a gigantic scale. Sweden shows us public works are valuable as they are practical. Theirs are locally planned and administered, with checks and standards set by a central authority. The cost is shared equally between local and central sides in the fact that they are part of long-time, permanent plan.

Why have we not considered such a policy? Mr. Hopkins says this is not the time to formulate it. He asserted to a commutee of Congress: "I would rather postpthe date to determine what the perman program should be until a time when we can envisage the extent of the problem as a permanent problem far better than we can today." Which is exactly like laying the hull of a battleship when enemy guns are pounding New York harbor. The Swedes planned for this depression in 1914. They are planning for the next one

New War on Syphilis

From the Kansas City Journal-Post.

P UBLIC health authorities believe that if all fatalities due to syphilis actually were reported as such, it would be found to be the leading cause of death in the United States, topping heart disease, cancer and tubercu-

It is estimated that about 6,000,000 men, women and children are syphilis sufferers, and that not one in 10 is under the care of a licensed physician. All this in spite of the fact that syphilis is one of few diseases for which medical science has developed a specific, making it a definitely curable disease if it is treated properly and in time.

A large part of this tragic showing is due to ignorance and to an obsolete prudery which, until recent years, has forbidden mention of the word in polite society. Thousands who escape death are going through life with their mental and physical health ruined because of the moral stigma associated with the so-called "social diseases." (As if tuberculosis and smallpox were not also social diseases!) Many consult quacks and spend their money on nostrums instead of going to their regular physician, who has modern facilities for diagnosis and treatment. The reason why death and morbidity rates go unchecked is clear.

There have been recent encouraging signs that syphilis is about to be smoked ou the open and attacked as all other diseases ttacked. The Social Security Act makes available to the United States Public Health Service and the Children's Bureau funds to finance a campaign. Surgeon-General Parran of the Health Service has made syphilis his bureau's next principal objective in public health protection. The American Social Hygiene Association is encouraged by the changed attitude of newspapers and p magazines, many of which exhibit a desire to co-operate with the public health services.

Thousands died annually of smallpox a century ago, because no cure was know ds are dying annually of syphilis today, when a cure is available. An enlightened blic attitude will not permit this intolerable situation to continue.

This principle, which men of the parties to which they were originally given like the words Tory and Whig. Often they come to mean the very opposite of what they once meant. Patriot, for example, was once an epithet applied to what was regarded as the subversive party, and less than a hungerd years ago, the upper classes in Europe regarded nationalists as conspirators against law and order and the vested rights of hereditary rulers.

The French seem to have a peculiar genius for adopting misleading names. Parties that have a mild bite like names which have a loud bark. Thus, a Republican of the Left is likely to be in fact a Republican of the Right; a Radical Socialist is neither radical nor Socialist; a Socialist is neither radical nor Socialist; a Socialist is likely to be what we should call a moderate progressive.

It is clear that a good nickname in necessary to the existence of a party. In order to stand together, see have to have a common name. This is so necessary that, rather than have no name at all, a party will often adopt one thrown at it by its enemies.

This is an almost infallible sign of a disposi tion to join either the extreme Right or the extreme Left.

There are conspiracies in human affairs, of course, but the great tides of history are not raised by conspiracies, and any man who is disposed to look at anything he dis likes as the product of a conspiracy may properly be regarded as illiterate, and then suspected of not being quite sane. Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler gues Against Amendment.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Jan. 18. — Dr.

Vicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, made pub-lic yesterday a letter he wrote to the Governors of 19 states review-PLANE PLUNGES INTO TEMPLE ing his opposition to the proposed twenty-second amendment, which would allow Congress to regulate the labor of children, and expressing the hope that the legislatures would not vote for ratification. Dr. Butler's letter, under date of Jan. 16, followed by eight days a letter written by President Roosevelt to the Governors of the same 19 states, which have not yet rati-fied the amendment but whose Legislatures meet this year, asking them to take affirmative action.

Legislatures meet this year, asking them to take affirmative action.

Favorable action by 11 more states is necessary to complete the number required for adoption, but some constitutional authorities question whether the amendment then would become part of the Constitution because of the lapse of time since it was submitted to the states by Congress (1924) and because by Congress (1924) and because some of the states have voted on it

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Jan. 18.—
The bodies of a young woman and a man were found by police today behind Oakwood Cemetery.

The girl, apparently in her 'teens, was identified tentatively by the Corener as Dora Bullard, a textile mill employe. Her throat was slashed. The man was identified by police as Leon K. Nichols, 30 years old, a mill worker. He was almost decapitated. The girl's purpose is, and its effect, if ratified, would be to put some 42,000,000 of the nation's population, being all those leas than its years of age, under the direct control of the Congress of the United States.

By Congress have voted on it more than once.

Dr. Butler in his letter said:

"This proposal has no direct relations, 3640 Lindel bit, until 11 a. m. Wed., Jan. 20, will lie in state at Christ Church Cathedral, Thirteenth and Locust, 12 o'clock noon until 1:45 p. m. After a "down" opening, support arrived on advices union heads were on their way to meet with General Motors representatives. The recovery move lasted but a short time, however, when word came from the conflicting forces that the gathering to negotiate peace had broken up.

In the afternoon selling wave number of shares dropped as much as 3 points. Prices tended to stifbit before the finish as Wall Street had a revival of hope that a settlement of the motors row ould be arranged before the situation became worse. Some of the steels improved as the American Iron & Steel Institute put the current week's mill activities at 80.6 per cent of capacity, up 1.8 points from the preceding week at a new peak since the latter part of February, 1930.

Outstanding share losers were Chrysler, General Motors, Anaconda, Kennecott, Cerro de Pasco Bethlehem, Inspiration, American Smelting, Texas Corp., Continental Oil, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Youngstown Sheet and Tube and

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE

By the Associated Press.

LONDON. Jan. 18.—Stock prices were somewhat mixed in the early trading but improved later in the day and closed steady. European bonds and trans-Atlantic shares were firm and the mining group, especially diamond and gold shares sold at higher prices. Industrials remained steady while home rais and gilt-edged securities reacted and sold at lower levels.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—The Bourse finished today with a heavy tone, rentes showing net losses of 10 to 40 centimes and Bank of France shares declined 95 francs. Royal Dutch was also weak, closing 30 francs down. Suez Canal stock was quoted at 28,805 francs, a drop of 295 francs.

LIVERPOOL, Jan. 18.—Wheat futures lost the early gain and finished unchanged to %d lower. The market declined on cheaper Argentine and Canadian c. 1. f. offers and an increase in the stocks of wheat afloat to European ports.

Speculative interest in cotton was discouraged by the forthcoming release of loan cotton. Bombay selling and scattered liquidation met local support and prices closed unchanged to one point lower.

SECURITY. [Sales] High. Low. [Close COURS 17] Increase of 1.8 Points to 80.6 Per Cent of Capacity Estimated for Week.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—Operations in the steel industry for the current week advanced 1.8 points to 80.6 per cent of capacity, a peak since the final week of February, 1930. The rate compared with 78.8 last week, the American Iron & Steel Institute estimated today.

A month ago operations averaged 77.0 per cent of capacity, while a year ago the rate was 49.9 per cent.
Steel circles attributed the rise in output to advancement of orders originally scheduled for later shipment, involving automobile steel and also material for other industries. This, it was thought, might tries. This, it was thought, might have tended to overbalance any cancellations incident to the General Motors' strike.

It had been understood various motor companies were seeking early delivery of steel to expedite assemblies. This, it was said, was based on belief cars would start moving in heavy volume with the first signs of settlement of the General Motors conflict.

$38,000,000 RETIREMENT OF ARGENTINE REPUBLIC BONDS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 18.—A $39,606,000 retirement of Argentine Republic bonds through sinking fund operations, was amounce doday by Dr. Roberto M. Ortis, Minister of Finance.

By the operation all of the Government of Argentine national etxernal sinking fund 6 per cent bonds of 1927, due Feb. 1, 1961, and the national external sinking funds 5½ per cent bonds of 1925, due Feb. 1, 1962, now outstanding and not previously, called will be redeemed.

This move was another step in the general program of reduction of the cost of service of the dollar debt, recently begun with the redemption on Dec. 1, 1936, of about $60,000,000 of the outstanding bonds.

HE physician is, on numerous occasions, asked where the spleen is situated and what it spleen is situated and what it does. The normal spleen is an oval shaped organ, flat on one side and slightly dome shaped on the other, bluish in color, weighing about half a pound, approximately the size of a small adult hand, tucked away in the abdomen high up on the left side, under the ribs. No one knows exactly what purpose the spleen serves. One of the latest text-books on physiology says "Much has been said and written about the spleen, but we are yet in the dark as to said and written about the spleen, but we are yet in the dark as to its distinctive function or functions." It seems pretty certain that it is in some way concerned with the processes of digestion, with the formation and destruction of the red blood cells, with the general nutrition of the body, and with serving as a sort of blood reservoir. The story is related about a famous professor of anatomy who The story is related about a fa-mous professor of anatomy who asked a student what was the func-tion of the spleen. The frightened student replied that the answer had been right on the tip of his tongue, but that unfortunately, he had for-gotten it. With felgned anguish the professor cried, "My God! SHE apologized for her small apartment, "only you see, I keep the house myself, a large one would be too much." Yes, with house-keeping, cooking, the hated practising, symphony rehearsals, performances, students (she really enjoys teaching), and her reading. Graziella Pampari is a busy woman. And still manages to look serene. She worries about her evening rowns. They must be simple rene. She worries about her evening gowns. They must be simple and dark for the stage; they must be full-skirted to accommodate the harp. They're hard to buy, so she usually has them made. And this year hasn't enough, she says. Prosecutor Thurber is waiting to get from the mails the package Mona Kilroy swears she mailed to Harrison Scott, well-known New York attorney, at Buffalo, the night Adele Roerden, ex-wite of the president of Continental Air Lines, was murdered on the sleeper ship from Newark to Chicago. Mona, on the witness stand, says she sent the letter to Scott. As witnesses are Ben Radman, New York racketeer; his bodyguard, Leity Burke; Winston Bradley, New York business man, married, and his secretary, Julie Burns. To testify also are Alison Thayer, stewardess; Terry Creedon, No. 1 pilot, and Co-pilot Steve Broderick. Alison got her job through Roerden, knows Lawrence Weston, who broke up the Roerden home.

Thurber pounded away but Mona stuck to her story.

It was no use. She had won.

When she finally stepped from the witness stand she smiled a little.

Just before dinner the jury went into deliberation. Before they went into session, they filed out with two officers-to dinner. "Come on, we'll eat while they're eating," Roerden said.

They all piled into one cab and Terry lifted Alson onto his lap to make room for Roerdon and Granger in the rear seat.

Her heart beat so loud she was afraid they would hear it. And the ride seemed hours to her.

For Double-Quick Cough Relief, Mix This at Home

Better Than Ready-Made cough remedy than you could buy medicines. Easily Mixed. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

Here's an old home remedy your mother used, but, for real results, it is still the best thing ever known for coughs that start from colds. Try it once, and you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble at all. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking is needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of actually better And there is positively nothing like it for quick action. You can feel it take hold instantly. It loosens the phiegm, soothes the inflamed membranes, and helps clear the air passages. No cough remedy, at any price, could be more effective.

AS the food you have eaten today contained any iodine? Unless you give definite thought to getting iodine in your diet, you will very likely be deficient in it.

The system does not need very much of this mineral but a lack of it sometimes causes goiter. I read an article recently by a well known authority who claimed that many catarrhal conditions, which annoy people during the winter especially, are caused by a lack of iodine in the food. The best sources of iodine are cranberries, watercress, fish and vegetables grown near the sea. When you plan your menus include fish at least once or twice a week and take advantage of cranberries whenever they are available.

you wish to have a list of the different food elements the body needs and want to know where to find them, send a 3-cent stamped envelope with your request to me, at St. Louis Post-Dispatch and I will mail the leaflet to you.

Your health and happiness depend on what you eat.

Today's Exercise: Stand erect with the right hand against the wall, feet together. Make a large circle with the left leg, letting the left foot touch the floor as you drag it around in a circle. In order to make a very big one you will have to bend the right knee slightly. Repeat six times. Now put the left hand against the wall. Make a large circle with the right leg, foot touching the floor. Slightly bend the left knee.

Believe It or Not By Ripley

THE SDIISTER STUMP—This relic of what was once a great oak tree preserved at Castle Howth near Dublin, Ireland, has a strange history. The fate of the barons of Howth are believed inextricably to have been linked to this tree. One branch of this tree would wither and fall to the ground every time a member of the St. Lawrence family, barons of Howth, would die. The last branch of this tree was found withered beside it when Kenelm St. Lawrence, heir to the castle, died in 1898.
